Brett Nicole Taylor defends clients in state and federal court in the dietary supplement, food, and cosmetic industries from product liability claims, claims of proposition 65 violations, and violations of consumer protection actions. She also routinely provides Proposition 65 compliance advice and litigates complex commercial disputes, including breach of contract, fraud, false advertising, breach of fiduciary duty, and negligence. Brett also has experience representing clients in mass tort and class actions involving product liability and consumer-related issues.

Brett has also successfully represented clients in commercial loan/guaranty enforcement cases and state consumer protection and unfair competition cases involving lending laws and regulations.

Brett is also active in her business/legal groups including serving as the treasurer for the Century City Bar Association and as editor for the Century City Bar Association newsletter. Additionally, her pro bono work includes participating in the Teen Court Program, which helps young people who are first-time offenders, and working on asylum cases.

Brett earned her law degree from Pepperdine University School of Law where she graduated cum laude. She earned her bachelor's degree in business administration from the University of Southern California. Brett has been recognized by Super Lawyer as a California "Rising Star."

Experience

Consumer Protection

- Defeated a motion for class certification in a putative class action filed in California state court against our client, a major food manufacturer, alleging that the packaging for a specific type of dog treat misrepresented that the product was "wholesome." The plaintiffs sought approximately $8.4 million on behalf of the putative class, plus punitive damages and attorneys' fees under California's consumer protection statutes. We defeated class certification, and plaintiffs agreed to drop all claims.
- Defeated a putative class action against a fitness, health and cosmetics company by negotiating a favorable settlement with the named plaintiff.
- Successfully represented a nutritional supplement company sued for false advertising throughout the United States. After performing a detailed preliminary investigation, and conducting discovery, we secured a favorable resolution at the Early Neutral Evaluation conference.
- Secured dismissal of a large putative class action centering on allegations that our dietary supplement industry client sold multiple supplements containing two unlawful ingredients in violation of unfair competition and false advertising statutes. Arguments in the case centered on cutting-edge legal questions about requisite pleading standards regarding standing to bring consumer protection claims.
- Currently defending a supplement company in California coordinated proceeding involving allegations of serious bodily injury and death.

Proposition 65

- Defend retail clients and food and bedding manufacturers in litigation involving claims of violations of Proposition 65.
- Advised a manufacturing client entering the California market on Proposition 65 warning labels for its products.

Product Liability and Business Litigation

- Defended an oil and gas company in a bench trial involving breach of contract claims. The matter settled on favorable terms after the bench trial decision and before appeals.
- Successfully represented an oil and gas company in a high-profile antitrust and trade libel action against competitors in the rubberized asphalt industry involving allegations concerning public contract bid rigging against competitors. The matter settled on favorable terms.
- Drafted and argued a successful motion for summary judgment for a corporate housing provider, resulting in a full dismissal of all claims against the client, including claims of breach of contract, negligence, and fraud.
- Drafted and successfully argued an Anti-SLAPP motion for an insurance company, resulting in dismissal of the claims against the client and an award of attorney's fees.
- Represented a product manufacturer in a product liability case involving alleged damages exceeding $5,000,000. After leading targeted fact and expert discovery and representing the client at mediation, the matter was resolved on favorable terms.
