Mark S. Anderson is currently chair of the Northwest Subrogation and Recovery practice group and is co-chair of the firm's national Maritime Recovery practice group. He concentrates his practice in subrogation and recovery, energy claims, construction claims, maritime law, and casualty defense.

Mark has tried several cases to verdict in Washington, Oregon, and Montana. He has represented the insurance industry and vessel owners in several major marina fires in the northwest. Mark has also handled a variety of construction defect and product liability cases, including several involving power generation facilities.

Mark is a frequent lecturer for the insurance industry, maritime groups and the University of Washington School of Engineering. He has also acted as a neutral arbitrator in a variety of cases.

Mark attended the University of Washington in 1985, where he received his Bachelor of Arts, and received his J.D. from the University of Washington School of Law in 1988. Mark is licensed in Washington, Oregon and Hawaii and has handled a variety of cases throughout the Northwest. A few notable cases include: The Bellevue, WA tower crane collapse; flood damage to the University of Hawaii-Manoa; the Whatcom Middle School fire loss; a CPVC water main failure in a 25 story condominium tower and an electrical failure to a co-generation facility in Montana.
