

Supreme Court Says Foreign Gov't Submissions Not Binding

Thursday, June 14, 2018

David Reichenberg, a member in the firm's Antitrust Practice, was quoted in Law360's "Supreme Court Says Foreign Gov't Submissions Not Binding." Recently the U.S. Supreme Court held that a foreign government's interpretation of its own law is not "binding" on U.S. courts, throwing out a Second Circuit ruling nixing a $147 million price-fixing judgment against two Chinese companies that received support from the Chinese government. David said that the court appears to have "set up a gauntlet of factors that foreign entities will have to get through if they intend to rely on the foreign compulsion defense and the international comity defense" in antitrust litigation.

To read the full article, click here.

Related Practice Areas

- Antitrust