Monday, November 3, 2014

In an article titled "Judge OKs silica sand settlement," Michael Klein, a member of Cozen O'Connor's Utility, Environmental & Energy practice group, discusses the recent settlement of his client's lawsuit against Wyoming County. D&I Silica sued the county after its permit for a proposed land development for a fracking sand transload facility was rejected by the county planning commission. Following the settlement, Senior Judge Brendan Vanston commended D&I Silica and the county for reaching a resolution and added that without the agreement, "D&I would have prevailed and your county and tax dollars would have taken a big hit."
