

Software

In the ever-changing world of software, clients need counsel whose depth and breadth of experience is matched only by their drive to stay ahead of the curve. Cozen O'Connor's attorneys bring to the table both the crucial insights gained from years of software industry experience and the innovative spirit and intellectual curiosity that excellence in the field of software law demands.

Our attorneys offer the full spectrum of software-related legal services, representing software vendors and service providers in corporate transactions, intellectual property matters, and litigation, to name just a few. Whether you need help negotiating a license agreement, ensuring that a service contract is crystal clear and air-tight, developing a risk management program, ensuring that you have proper insurance coverage, patenting your latest innovation, or handling litigation of any size, Cozen O'Connor stands ready to provide the practical, business-minded service for which we are known.
