

In the HQ2 Race, Cost of Living Benefits Pittsburgh

Friday, January 19, 2018

Jeffrey Mills, a member of Cozen O'Connor's Real Estate Practice Group, discusses Pittsburgh's appealing cost of living as a distinguishing feature from other cities in competition for Amazon's second headquarters (HQ2) in Pittsburgh Business Times. "One of the advantages Pittsburgh has over a majority of other cities is the cost of living index and our ability to have an Amazon employee make close to $100,000, and that $100,000 in the city and the region will go a lot farther than $100,000 in New York or Washington, D.C.," said Jeffrey. Pittsburgh, named one of the finalists in the HQ2 race, ranks second in cost, which includes real estate and other factors.

To read the full article, click here (subscription required).

Related Practice Areas

- Real Estate