

Ross commissioners approve 'mixed-use overlay district'

Monday, July 24, 2017

Jeffrey Mills, a member of Cozen O'Connor's Real Estate Practice Group in Pittsburgh, discusses the approval for mixed-use developments in Ross Township, Pa. in TribLIVE. "Mixed-use developments are a national trend. Placing upscale retail shops, nice restaurants, and offices together with housing not only creates a destination for people to visit, it creates an attractive option for the growing number of people who desire those amenities without necessarily having to drive," said Jeff. Ross Township's first project is likely an apartment building with retail and office space.

To read the full article, click here.

Related Practice Areas

- Real Estate